PROFESSIONAL ABILITIES:

- Levelheaded: When performing any professional skill at her duty station, K'tral ignores all test penalties from distraction.
- Ops Manager: At the beginning of the session, K'tral may declare one System Operation Specialty as "mission-critical." All crew gain a +1 bonus to all Systems Operation Skill tests involving that Specialty.
- Station Proficiency: Once per game session, K'tral may re-roll one System Operation test and use the better of the two test results.

ADVANCEMENTS: 9

EDGES:

- Bold: When K'tral spends Courage in a physical test, each point grants a +5 bonus instead of the normal +3.
- Eidetic Memory: Simple (TN 5) Academic tests are automatically successful and K'tral gains a +2 bonus to all Academic tests with a TN of 10+. This includes academic Skills used in a Physical test, and physical Skills used in an Academic test.
- Psionic: K'tral is a touch-telepath and possess the Psi Attribute, which she treats as a favored Attribute.
- Skill Focus (Keen Hearing): K'tral gains a +4 species bonus to all Observe (Listen) tests.

FLAWS:

- Emotionally Compromised: If K'tral is aware of a child in danger, she must spend a Courage Point every time she takes an action not directly helping said child.

BACKGROUND:

K'tral was born and raised on Vulcan, deep in the desert. She was part of a proscribed cult that worshipped Kir-alep, the old Vulcan god of peace and acceptance, and his wrathful aspect, Alep-kir, the Sullen. The cult fiercely protected the children, and extended that protection to children of other races. As a young woman, K'tral discovered a priest of the cult abusing a child, and when he would not change his ways, she set a fire and held the priest down in it until he burned to death. She escaped with bad burn scars on the back of her hands. Her actions drew the attention of the Vulcan authorities, and they covered up the whole affair as the cult vanished deeper into the desert. As the cult did accept some of Surak's teachings, the authorities permitted K'tral to enroll in the Vulcan Science Academy. Eventually, her past caught up with her and the VSA expelled her. She applied for Starfleet academy, and entered in 2359. She graduated in 2364 spent the next few years quietly serving in operations. In 2372, she was in the Canopus Sector when captain Orta tapped her as ops manager for the U.S.S. Vanguard. The vanguard traveled to the New P'Jem Sector and joined the defense of Starbase 212. In early May of 2372, Admiral T'konra reassigned K'tral to operations manager for the U.S.S. Solstice.
